Getting your feet wet in southwest Nova Scotia

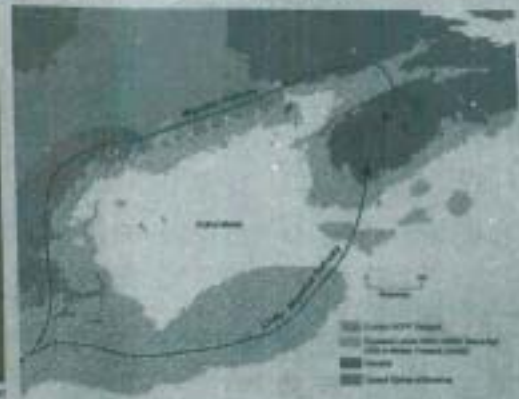
5,000 to 10,000 years ago, a milder climate opened the door to plants and animals from further south

NOVA SCOTIA NATURALLY

By Alan Bellows

A Monarch butterfly feeds on a Buddleigh in southwest Nova Scotia.

Pipestem Lantsan on Gillian Lake

Plymouth Gentian


Pink Lovegrass